

The following is a statement made regarding the expenses of Fort Wayne National Cemetery
at June 30, 1904, and of the same.

THE NEW YORK TRAMWAY. The New York City Tramway Company, which has been operating the city's streetcar system for many years, is now facing a new challenge. The city has decided to take over the system, and the company is fighting to keep its independence. The city's plan is to operate the system as a public utility, and the company is arguing that it is a private business. The case is being heard in court, and the outcome will determine the future of the city's streetcar system.

THE NEW YORK TRAMWAY. The New York City Tramway Company, which has been operating the city's streetcar system for many years, is now facing a new challenge. The city has decided to take over the system, and the company is fighting to keep its independence. The city's plan is to operate the system as a public utility, and the company is arguing that it is a private business. The case is being heard in court, and the outcome will determine the future of the city's streetcar system.

THE NEW YORK TRAMWAY. The New York City Tramway Company, which has been operating the city's streetcar system for many years, is now facing a new challenge. The city has decided to take over the system, and the company is fighting to keep its independence. The city's plan is to operate the system as a public utility, and the company is arguing that it is a private business. The case is being heard in court, and the outcome will determine the future of the city's streetcar system.

THE NEW YORK TRAMWAY. The New York City Tramway Company, which has been operating the city's streetcar system for many years, is now facing a new challenge. The city has decided to take over the system, and the company is fighting to keep its independence. The city's plan is to operate the system as a public utility, and the company is arguing that it is a private business. The case is being heard in court, and the outcome will determine the future of the city's streetcar system.

THE NEW YORK TRAMWAY. The New York City Tramway Company, which has been operating the city's streetcar system for many years, is now facing a new challenge. The city has decided to take over the system, and the company is fighting to keep its independence. The city's plan is to operate the system as a public utility, and the company is arguing that it is a private business. The case is being heard in court, and the outcome will determine the future of the city's streetcar system.

THE NEW YORK TRAMWAY. The New York City Tramway Company, which has been operating the city's streetcar system for many years, is now facing a new challenge. The city has decided to take over the system, and the company is fighting to keep its independence. The city's plan is to operate the system as a public utility, and the company is arguing that it is a private business. The case is being heard in court, and the outcome will determine the future of the city's streetcar system.

THE NEW YORK TRAMWAY. The New York City Tramway Company, which has been operating the city's streetcar system for many years, is now facing a new challenge. The city has decided to take over the system, and the company is fighting to keep its independence. The city's plan is to operate the system as a public utility, and the company is arguing that it is a private business. The case is being heard in court, and the outcome will determine the future of the city's streetcar system.

